

Orange tip sea squirt

Corella eumyota

Coming from temperate and cold waters of the Southern hemisphere, this sea squirt was first identified in Brittany in 2002. It may have arrived with shellfish cultures and now competes with native fauna and is a fouling nuisance for shellfish farms.

Copyright: Kent Wildlife Trust

Copyright: Christopher Quintin

This solitary sea squirt has a smooth, semi-transparent oval body, making its U-shaped guts easily visible. It has one siphon on top and one on the right-hand side, and grows up to 8cm.

PANACHE

Protected Area Network Across
the Channel Ecosystem